The Federal City Club has been founded to create a gathering place in downtown Washington for men with an interest in public affairs and government life.

It will begin as a luncheon club—with a clubroom, dining room and outside terrace and garden on the main floor level of the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel at Sixteenth and K Streets, N.W. It will have health facilities—with steam room, massage and exercise equipment on the floor below.

The Federal City Club will confine its membership to men who are concerned with public affairs. It will be completely nonpartisan. It will hopefully become, through the nature of its membership and by means of occasional club dinners, a stimulating center of political thought. It will observe no racial distinctions in the choice of its members.

The clubroom and in warm weather the outside terrace will be open to ladies for cocktails in the evening and also for luncheon on Saturday. Dinner will not be served regularly; however, the clubroom, the terrace, and also the health facilities will be open to members during the evening hours.

The Federal City Club has been formed by fifty Founder Members, whose fees were designed to cover the initial capital costs. Invitations to residents (those within the Greater Washington Area) and non-residents (those outside the Greater Washington Area) are being issued by the Founder Members and the Board of Governors.

Invitations to non-residents will be sent to a number of leading citizens in other cities. The Club hopes in this way to resist the Capital's tendency to become insulated from the rest of the nation. Members of Congress will be invited to join as Non-Resident Members.

After the initial membership has been established, candidates for membership will be proposed by two or more Resident or Founder Members and approved by the Board of Governors.

The initiation fee for Resident membership will be $200 (plus $40 Federal excise tax) and the annual dues will be $120 (plus $24 excise tax). The initiation fee for Non-Resident membership will be $100 (plus $20 excise tax) and the annual dues will be $60 (plus $12 excise tax).
